LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, MAY 18, 1864

Punch heartily applands the custom, which, it gladdens him to see, is mors and more becoming commen, of adding the two words "No cards" to matrimonial announcements. The sending out of wedding cards ties long appeared, to Mr. Punch, a sadly stupid practice, and he is pleased to find that people are showing their good sense by defor their nuion, without having time to spare for directing packs of onvolops, and patting wedding eards in them; and, moreover, Punch believes that many a small equabble will be saved by the cessation of this quite useless custom. Who can tell what sharp words psss when the card list is discussed, and Edwin vows he will not call on Angelina's or of their former selves. friends, the Snookses, while Augy says she can't dream of sending cards to such extraordinary people as the Smiths? And who can tell what pleasant friendships have unhappily been enspeed by the neglecting, in the haste of the ante-nuptial preparation, to forward wedding cards to some old friend or other in the commonly long list? What the use of wedding eards is, excepting to give trouble, it quite puzzles Panch to see. When pcople commit matrimony, their friends are tell them of the interesting fact. Three lines was stretched along the railroad, the left restin the Times (or, perhans, say half-a-dozen, if the person be "assisted" and it be thought needful to name the great-great-greadfather of the hride), three lines of ndvertisement will answer every purpose in the matter of publicity, and will spare the friends and relapublicity, and will spare the friends and relatives on both sides of the marriage much ment the divisions of the 4th corps were in this bother and soulo cost. For now, when one gets carde, one either has to waste one's time and temper in a formul morning cell, or else to send one's own cerd in return by post; either of which processes catalis some needless trouble, and leads one to inour nanecessary expense. So, by all means, Punch would say, let p ople put "No cards" in their aunouncements of a marriago. But in the in-

REVOLUTI H IN TUNIS -A severs insurrection is raging in the Barbary States, In the Regency of Tanie, which la said to have become so serious that foreign powers may have to intervene. Without the facts before it, the Albauy Jonrnal would not wonder if French intrigue were at the bottom of the difficulty. We know that the agents of the Emperor have been busy for some time in fomenting discord between the people and the government. As long as five years ago a plot, suspected to have been hatched within the French Consulate, and having for its object the subversion of the Tanisian power, was discovered. The object of all this is ap-Algerine possessions. The two lie side by side. Algeria is sterile; Tunis is fruitini. The former is a dead draln upon the Imperial treasury of sixty millions of francs aunually: the latter would be more than self-sustaining. The one has no commerco worth speaking cf; the other commands the trade of the richest pertion of the Barbary countries. Besides, the possession of Tunis by France would, in a measure, neutralize the possessicn of Gibraltar by England. It would greatly increass her power in the Mediterraneen, and give her the possession of one of the best harbors between the Pillar of Hercules and the month of the Nile. Tunis is a land of revolutions. Hardly a sovereign in one hundred and fifty years has died a natural death. Bey after Bay has been craelly butchered, now by the hand of ambitious relatives, now by the hand of military nsurpers, now by the hand of his own menials. It is only fifty years since one was cut down in his cwn palace yard by his chauchs, and not more than sixty years since another was assarsinated while riding ont, and his mangled remains dragged through the mire of the streets and thrown into a ditch beyond the walls of the city.

THE HEAD OF HAYDN -The Vienna journals mention an incident of the same kind as the disappearance of Voltaire's and Rous- | sean's remnins from the Pantheon. It appears that the head of Hayda was separated from the body and taken away a week after his lnterment by the director of a house of correction, M. Peter, who wished to study the skall of the celebrated composer. The head afterwards passed into the possession of several persons, and was but very recently presented to the Conservatory of Music at Vienua, where it is now preserved.

UNION STATE CONVENTION; UNION STATE CONVENTION:

The majority of the Central Committee appointed by the Union Convention of the State of Kentucky, that assembled in Lonisville on the 18th March, 1863, consider it their drifty and right to call another Convention:

Wherefore, it is resolved that the voters of our State who stand upon and indorse the platform adopted by the Union Democratic Convention held in the city of Lonisville on the 18th of March last, and who desire to a Convention, to be held in the said city on the 25th of May next, for the purpose of forming a State electoral-ticket, and selecting delegates to the Union Conservative National Convention which meets in the city of Chicago on the 4th of July next.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 18, 1864.

The following is the entire appeal that Governor Bramlette sends forth to the loyal people of Kentucky, to which we have heretofore called attention, but no words of ours can add vigor to the noble energy which animates the soul of our worthy Executive: COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY, EXECUTIVE DEP'T, FRANKFORT, May 13, 1864.

Tho World's correspondent accompanies the letters with the following remarks: "Iiaclose you two intercepted rebel letters, which I have managed to obtain with considerable difficulty. The Confederate postage-stamp and the postmark will be evidence of their enthenticity. Mr. Wellford, the writer of the first, is chief clerk in the rebel War Department, and has of course access to information in regard to the matters on which he writes. The letter, could it have been obtained earlier, might have been of no little value to the Government, and even now may be of assistance in giving some idea of Lee's futhre plane. Hon. D. H. Lewis, to whom the letter is addressed, was a member of the first rebel Congress from the Fifth District of Georgia. It will be noticed that the letter is written on the regular official peper of the War Department, the sheet having at its head the printed date. The second of these interesting documents is from the wife of Major Monroe, of a Virginia reglment, and was addressed, as you will see by he envelop, to his sister in Richmond. One noticeable fact will be observed in both etters, nemely, the contemptuous way in which General Bragg is epoken of. I earn that this is but an indication of the general feeling throughout the Sonth." LETTER NO. ONE.

LA CROSSB, April 6, 1864. "BRICK" POMEROY, Editor Daily Demo crat: Argus eyed friend, I am in much trouble. Will you hear my prnyer and give vent to solvice? My wife—the sweet partner of my terrestrial joys and earthly hallucinations have installed to be foresterned. tions, has joined the loyal female league. She is on the benevulent altogether now for two months. She is a good woman, the goodest of libink so," confidentially answered Halleck. months. She is a good woman, the goodest of all her sex, and compared to her all others of her sex are but insects. I comphome at noon, stant, hut soon said, "Ahl did you say he her sex are but insects. I comphome at noon, and she is off to see Mrs. Gadley on League business. I cat cold vituals for dinner and shout alond through the deserted kitchen and shout alond the deserted kitchen and shout alond the deserted kitchen and shout alond the deserted kitchen and sh shout alond through the deserted kitchen and things, but she greets me not! I come home to tea, hut there is no tea for me! I grnb it in the pantry! That blessed wife of mine is cff to see about the League. At midnight I come home, and she is still absent. I go to bed. I leave the door unlocked. I dream of robbers. The children equall for the neurishment I have not. It is lonesome. Soon I hear neaten. A pair of steps. Two pair of the company that the president, the company that the president of the president, whose ment about the president of the president. The children equall for the pair of the president of the occasion of the last levee at the White llouse. Standing at his right in the Blue standing at his r hear n step. A pair of steps. Two pair of "but I heard to-day that General Grant steps, Tenor and base steps. I listen. Two pair of steps climb my one pair of steps. They side." The fellow withdrew. There was linger at the threshold—there are indistinct words—one-pair goeth hesee —my wife has returned. Noble woman! Kind neighbor! Alter the soldiers!

I go down the next day to my shop. I return ht dinner time—my wife is out I eat another lunch. I return to the shop. At lea time I go home. I want to ask my wife something privately, hat two hundred women are there to get the neasure of my drawers for the league. Then my wife goes down to my.

the lesgue. Then my wife goes down town. I follow her. She dodges in this store—then in that—then in to other. Forty women dodge in, and out. They run over me. They wife off. I love her. I look for her diligently, but she is not to be found. I stand on the over. She has vanished. Noble woman. She does so much good. She has helped send two pair of mitters and an applicable of the article: does so much good. She has helped sand two pair of mittens and an embroidered shirt tril to the San Com. I have not seen her for five weeks—that is to tak with her.

When will the war be over? I want my wife to be at home alone. If you see my wife to be at home alone. If you see my wife tell her I want her. Not le weman—she loves the soldiers.
